Choose a useful and realistic trial

A. Reading 閱讀理解 | 20 marks | Questions on page 3

Read both texts and the table. Use the given limits when choosing an option.

TEXT A | Notice from the deputy principal

The school will fund ONE four-week lunchtime trial next term. The aim is to help pupils who want a quieter break. We can spend up to $300 in total and can provide one supervising teacher. The trial may use only an existing indoor room. It must run between 12:45 and 1:15 p.m., and pupils must still have enough time to eat. The room must remain available for lessons after lunch. Please explain how you will manage the space, collect feedback and decide whether the trial has worked.

TEXT B | Email from Mina, class representative

Some classmates have asked for a quiet reading room. Others would like music, but headphones may not solve the problem of noise when pupils arrive and leave together. Last week I asked 40 pupils in our year group to choose one activity. The results are below. They show preferences in that small group, not what every pupil in the school wants.

My favourite idea is the garden, although I know we need to check the school's conditions. A popular idea is useful only if we can run it safely and fairly. Whatever we choose, pupils should be able to try it without buying equipment. We should also ask pupils who do not attend why they stay away.

Option	Votes (40 pupils)	Cost / staffing / space
Quiet reading room	18	$240 / 1 teacher / existing classroom
Board-game room	12	$280 / 2 teachers / existing classroom
Headphone music room	6	$360 / 1 teacher / existing classroom
Rooftop garden	4	$200 / 1 teacher / outdoor rooftop

All costs cover the whole four-week trial. Each pupil selected one option. The survey and costs are invented for this learning task.
