12 marks

Dear Deputy Principal,
I propose a four-week quiet reading room trial. It received 18 votes in the survey of 40 pupils and meets the practical limits. The cost is $240, leaving $60, and only one teacher is needed.
We could use an existing classroom from 12:45 to 1:15 p.m. Pupils should finish eating before they enter. To keep the room quiet, we could ask everyone to read or work silently. If places are limited, we will use a booking list and give different pupils a chance each week. Before leaving, pupils will return the chairs and remove their belongings.
We will collect short feedback forms and ask non-attendees why they did not join. If pupils report a quieter break, we will consider continuing the scheme.
Yours sincerely,
Alex
